SEPTEMBER 1972

PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED DURING JULY-AUGUST

BULLETIN OF THE MONTH

Shrubs, vines, and trees . . . for summer color
Home and Garden Bulletin No. 181

This bulletin contains a brief description of the plants in each category that bloom between July and October. Plants are listed by their common names in alphabetical order. Tells how to select plants, when to plant, and how to prepare plant beds. Outlines simple rules to follow for success in growing vines, shrubs, and trees.

FARMERS' BULLETINS

Raising livestock on small farms. (F 2224) 22 p. 15¢.

This bulletin tells how families on small farms can raise livestock for food or added income. It describes the requirements for raising chickens, turkeys, ducks and geese, squabs, dairy cows, dairy goats, sheep, rabbits, and hogs. Among the important things discussed are feeding practices, houses and equipment, and health, care, and selection of stock.

Growing strawberries in the southeastern and Gulf Coast States. (F 2246) 33 p. 25¢.

This bulletin, designed for growers of strawberries in certain regions of the southeastern United States, gives a detailed account of how to care for plants and control pests attacking strawberries. In addition to culture and harvesting, this booklet discusses suitable varieties to grow in the South, how to obtain plants, how to fertilize and irrigate them if necessary, and the diseases that strawberry plants can develop.

HOME AND GARDEN BULLETINS

Carne de Res y de Aves de Corral—
Como cuidar sus comestibles. (G 174-S) 12 p. 20¢.

This is the Spanish version which gives consumers tips on buying, handling, storing, and cooking meat and poultry products to keep them wholesome. Included are a storage chart and a cooking chart for the various types of meat and poultry.

Shrubs, vines, and trees . . . for summer color. (G 181) 21 p. 15¢.

LEAFLETS

Dwarf fruit trees: Selection and care. (L 407) 8 p. 10¢.

Dwarf fruit trees require less growing space than standard trees, but they produce fruit of similar size and quality. Also, dwarfs begin to bear earlier than standard trees. This bulletin tells how to select dwarf fruit trees from a nursery and how to take care of them.

Controlling the brown recluse spider. (L 556) Folder. 15¢.

The brown recluse spider is widely distributed in the United States, and is commonly found around homes and farm buildings. It is most widely distributed in the Southern and Central States. A bite by this spider is usually followed by intense pain. This bulletin tells the person who has been bitten what to do immediately after the bite and what the treatment usually is thereafter. The final section discusses the most effective method of control of this spider.

Controlling wood-destroying beetles in buildings and furniture. (L 558) 8 p. 10¢.

This leaflet describes the damage done by wood-destroying beetles to buildings and furniture. It illustrates the life cycle of the beetles, tells how their presence can be detected, and explains how damage by beetles can be controlled. It also suggests how severe infestations can be controlled through the use of pesticides.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
OFFICE OF INFORMATION

JANUARY 1973

PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED DURING NOVEMBER-DECEMBER 1972

BULLETIN OF THE MONTH

Be safe from insects in recreation areas
Home and Garden Bulletin No. 200

This new bulletin describes how to protect yourself from insects in recreational areas, and includes discussions of repellents, space sprays, precautions, and alternative methods of protection.

FARMERS' BULLETINS

Strawberry culture: Eastern United States. (F 1028) 20 p. 20¢.

Strawberries are an important crop in the eastern United States. This revised bulletin recommends growing methods for that part of the East bounded by the Great Plains on the West, and by the Coastal Plain on the South. This bulletin will be a valuable aid to any farmer trying to decide on growing strawberries on a commercial basis.

Rice diseases. (F 2120) 14 p. 15¢.

This fully illustrated bulletin describes in detail major and minor diseases of rice in the United States. A list of the scientific names of organisms causing diseases and a summary of recommended control measures are found at the end of the bulletin.

Growing blackberries. (F 2160) 18 p. 25¢.

This bulletin gives blackberry growers the information they need to carry out practices that will give them the greatest yield and the longest productive life from the plantation. It describes kinds and varieties of blackberries; discusses adaptation, culture, and harvest; includes information on control of weeds, insects, and diseases.

Controlling diseases of raspberries and blackberries. (F 2208) 14 p. 15¢.

This revised bulletin describes the major diseases which may afflict raspberries and blackberries, and brings control information up-to-date. It includes information on cultural and chemical control of these diseases, and also provides new information on nematode damage and control and ringspot.

Controlling the greater wax moth . . . a pest of honeycombs. (F 2217) 10 p. 15¢.

This bulletin tells how to control the greater wax moth—an insect that damages combs, honey, and bee colonies and causes large losses to beekeepers in the United States. Control measures for the apiary and for stored combs are outlined.

HOME AND GARDEN BULLETINS

Be safe from insects in recreation areas. (G 200) 6 p. 10¢.
See Bulletin of the Month.

LEAFLETS

Replenishing underground water supplies on the farm. (L 452) 8 p. 10¢.

This bulletin discusses five methods by which water can be deposited in underground basins—the basin, furrow, flooding, shaft or pit, and injection-wells methods.

Maintaining subsurface drains. (L 557) 8 p. 15¢.

If properly installed, subsurface drains should function well for many years. Most failures can be prevented by regular care. This leaflet describes common trouble spots, maintenance of inlets, drains, outlets, and ditches, and suggests methods for mapping your drainage system.
